Faculty Research and Creative Activity Funding Application for 2024-2025
Goldstein Center for Human Rights (GCHR)
University of Nebraska at Omaha

The Goldstein Center for Human Rights (GCHR) at the University of Nebraska at Omaha (UNO) is supporting research and creative activity on human rights issues. Those pursuing projects in the current priority themes of the Center—Religion and Human Rights, Health and Human Rights, Technology and Human Rights, and Migration, Mobility, and Human Rights—and/or projects that are interdisciplinary in nature or international in scope are especially encouraged to apply. Please use the following link to complete your application and upload your CV and budget: https://forms.office.com/r/gVisswePm9. Note: Deadline for application is December 2, 2024. The committee will evaluate applications within one month of their receipt.

Eligibility and use of funds: Funding is available only to Active Faculty Affiliates of the GCHR. For this academic year, total funding for $3,000 is available to partially fund up to two research projects and/or creative activities (e.g. software, field work travel, research assistance, compensation for research participants, performance/exhibition space). If the project involves human subjects, funds will only be released after the applicant has provided proof of IRB approval. Eligible faculty may submit one application per year. Funds are subject to availability in each annual cycle and approval of the GCHR Executive Committee and the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. The recipient must use the funds within 12 months of the award announcement. Note: Funds will not be provided for conference travel or faculty stipend/salary.

Applicant Information

1. Full name:

2. Title:

3. College and Academic Unit:

4. Contact information:

   - Office Address:

   - Phone:

   - Email:

Project Information

5. Title of the project:

6. Description of the project (750 words or less). In the description, include specific information about the research design, methodology, and content of the research or creative activity.

7. Description of the contribution of the project to human rights studies (250 words or less). Address how the work advances the study of human rights issues.

8. Description of how the project fits within your research agenda (250 words or less)

9. Description of the current status of the project. Please indicate whether this is ongoing or new research and include an approximate timeline for completion of the project.

10. Total amount of support sought. Include a justified budget. Specify direct costs (e.g. costs of supplies) in this application. Indicate whether the project currently has funding from an additional source or other funds are also being sought.

11. Include a 2 page CV as separate document, highlighting activities most closely related to the proposed project.